WEEKLY ACTIVITIES AND STATUS REPORT FOR THE DD/ICS--23 January 1985

CIPC Organizational Activities

- The final Cruise Missile Report is being retyped for the third time. Hopefully, this version will suffice for review by the working group.
 - It is imperative that this report be of the highest quality. We have a very successful story to tell on the degree of implementation of the study recommendations. To date, 86 percent of the recommendations have been, or are in the process of being, implemented. Our intelligence posture of this problem has been improved and will continue to improve as the full range of recommendations are implemented. This improved state is attributed to our study.
- We are presently reviewing a draft of the Terrorism Study. It needs substantial work!
- [] reported for duty on 17 January. He has assumed Carol's responsibilities on the CBW Subcommittee.
- Carol has advised Air Force personnel that she will retire effective 1 July 1985. In the interim, she will be assigned to the Air Force Escape and Evasion Staff.
- [] is in Los Alamos attending the Perry Panel meeting. This is their last meeting before they start drafting their report to the CIPC.

- [REDACTED] has indicated that he wants to finish the subcommittee's work around April, some six months after the subcommittee's inception. Future meetings will be more issue oriented, although the next meeting (28 January) will be devoted, in part, to State's activities.

25X1 Combat Intelligence Analysis: [REDACTED] r.

- Draft preparation continues on a preliminary report to the C/CIPC on DIRNSA's request to look into this matter. Further discussions with PBS personnel and with members of the task force have clarified some ambiguities relative to the coordination process within the DoD. At this stage, our recommendations may center on requesting the DIA to chair a study effort to develop an all-source methodologies from which the intelligence discipline architectures can be developed for a timely and efficient flow of intelligence to the theater commanders, and others as appropriate.

25X1 Narcotics Intelligence: [REDACTED]

- The CIPC members have concurred in the follow-up Narcotics Report for the DDCI. The report has been updated to reflect the members comments and is awaiting your review. Subsequently, it will be forwarded to the DDCI.
 - It is now time to initiate preparation of our final Narcotics Report for the DCI on the status of implementation of the original study. George has been tasked to get this effort under way by mid-February.

25X1 Terrorism Activities: [REDACTED]

- The Interagency Intelligence Committee on Terrorism (IICT) is scheduled to meet Thursday, 24 January. [REDACTED] will chair this session. The question of who will chair the next--Charlie Allen or [REDACTED]--has not been settled. Should the matter come up for discussion, [REDACTED] anticipates the large majority of IICT members will tactfully express a preference for the NIO.

- These difficulties are resolvable. However, the combination of delayed inputs to the final draft report and fundamental differences in what to recommend suggests that the probability of providing a final, coordinated report by the end of February is diminishing. The panel has therefore agreed not to meet during the week of 21-25 January in order to provide time for its members to work on their inputs, and also to give further consideration to the draft recommendations and to those measures they might individually recommend. The next meeting will be held on 31 January, and will address these matters.
- On the positive side, several of the recommendations discussed have already found a following in the Community, and one may expect that others will do so eventually.
- Finally,  will continue to seek completion of the report by the end of February, the problems described above suggest that March is the earliest reasonable time for the study to be completed.
